Meet the Ziz!

Who collected the animals for the ark? Find out in Noah and the Ziz, the second book in a series about the Ziz, a giant mythological bird, whose zany efforts to do the right thing will captivate young readers of all faiths.

Jacqueline Jules is an elementary school librarian who works with children in preschool through sixth grade. She is the author of Noah and the Ziz, The Hardest Word, Once Upon a Shabbos, Clap and Count, The Grey Striped Shirt, and The Ziz and the Hanukkah Miracle. Her poetry and prose have appeared in 60 magazines including Cricket, Spider, Cicada, and Highlights. She is available for author presentations in the Washington, DC metro area nights and weekends. Out-of-town and weekday performances can be arranged during selected weeks in the months of October, January, March, April, and July.

Rave Reviews of Noah and the Ziz

"Combine a simple story about Noah with a mythical 'big bird' character, add expressive, splashy illustrations and you have the makings of a winner...Highly recommended."

--Church and Synagogue Library Association

"Anyone looking for a light-hearted, engaging, and creative take on the story of Noah for preschool and early school-age children will find this book a winner." --CBA Marketplace

Jacqueline Jules gives a humorous twist to a well-known Biblical story...Katherine Kahn's bright whimsical pictures are a wonderful match for Jules' zany tale and breathe life into the bold, clumsy Ziz. --Washington Parent

Children will enjoy Jules' delightful, but very fallible character the Ziz just because he isn't perfect...The Ziz, who already is bigger than life and makes gigantic mistakes, learns from them and becomes a better person because of it...Noah and the Ziz is sure to be a book that little ones will want their parents to read over and over." --MyShelf.Com
